

Dear ESPRM Ambassadors,

during all ESPRM congresses, there has been a contest called TESC (Trans European Scientific Contest). The aim of TESC is to stimulate young physicians in PRM to perform clinical research and to present their results during an ESPRM Congress.

Following the successful TESC session during joined ESPRM/ISPRM congress in 2022, we are organizing new TESC session which will take place during 2024 ESPRM congress in Ljubljana.

Each national society has the right to select one young PRM physician to compete in TESC. The candidate should be a resident or young specialist in PRM not more than 3 years after graduation as PRM specialist. They should present their own research and have approval of their supervisor. Your national society is free on how to organize this selection procedure.

The organizing committee of TESC (Frane Grubišić, Zala Kuret and Rutger Osterthun) and the organizing committee of the 24th European Congress of PRM will need the names of the candidates before 01st February 2024. After this date, no candidates will be accepted for the contest.

The candidates will have to prepare a presentation no longer than 10 minutes followed by the questions and answers from the Jury (5 minutes). A Jury consisting of senior researchers coming from countries that have sent a candidate for TESC will be installed. Members of the jury will assess and judge the contributions on research quality, presentation and relevance for PRM.

The application file to the TESC should be sent to the email address: info@esprm.eu

Deadline for sending application is 01st February 2024.

The TESC application file should contain following data:

- Full name and affiliation of the candidate
- Abstract (maximum 300 words)
- CV of the candidate
- Supervisor name and affiliation
- How candidate contributed to the research (eg. with design, experiment, analysis, writing, all of listed...etc.)
- By whom the congress fee for contestant will be paid (Contestant/National PRM Society)

Three prizes will be awarded: 1000, 500 and 300 EUR respectively and these will be delivered at the congress eminent social event to which the three finalists will be invited by ESPRM.

Hoping that this edition of the TESC, as well as the previous ones, will be successful, we are looking forward to meeting you in the upcoming 24th ESPRM congress in Ljubljana.

Sincerely,

TESC team
Frane Grubišić, Zala Kuret and Rutger Osterthun
